professional membership

IEBE professional membership sets the standards for education business practitioners working in schools, colleges, businesses and specialist providers. Practitioners are assessed against a Body of Knowledge that represents the broad requirements of those who design, help to organise and/or participate in high-quality education business activities, providing clear benefits for young people. The accreditation process varies depending on the level, but generally consists of providing evidence that the individual is working to an agreed level of competence, using a 'case study' approach. There is no requirement for reaccreditation, although on-going accreditation is dependent on continuing membership of IEBE.
